

QASource Acquires Software Testing Crowdsourcing Company MyCrowd QA

Move enables QA company to offer additional depth of service

PLEASANTON, California, August 28, 2017 - QASource, one of the world's leading software QA services providers, announced today that it has acquired MyCrowd QA, a three-year-old San Francisco crowdtesting company.

The acquisition expands the suite of services QASource offers to include crowdsourced testing — using real people on multiple devices and networks in geographies across the globe. It also enables QASource to serve existing and new customers with a third engagement model.

QASource also delivers a short-term, pay-as-you-go offering through QAOnDemand, in addition to its core service of providing dedicated, offshore QA engineers to customer software development teams. QASource boasts a hybrid onsite/offshore model that combines offshore technical talent in India with U.S. management, and QA leads embedded in clients' engineering departments — enabling them to avoid the risks that often accompany a remote testing team.

“Strategically, this acquisition of MyCrowd QA allows us to serve our customers better,” said Rick Rampton, Head of Client Success. “They may have needs that are geographically specific like retail stores, for example, or that require customer feedback on products or apps using different networks and integrations. We now have multiple ways of working with our customers to bring them value.”

The acquisition of MyCrowd QA adds hundreds of clients and thousands of testers around the globe to QASource's rolls. Financial details of the transaction between the two privately held companies was not disclosed.
